INTERVIEW SUMMARY RECORD

Sir:

On December 29, 2003, the undersigned attorney contacted the Examiner, Steve Gravini, on the above-referenced case. The Applicants' attorney raised issues concerning the issuance of a new office action after an appeal brief had already been filed. Agreement was reached. The question was whether the Applicants' attorney would need to file a supplemental appeal brief because of the new points. The Examiner indicated that that was not necessary and that the purpose was to simply correct a typographical error in the final rejection to reject additional claims.

Therefore, it was agreed that the Applicants' attorney could respond with respect to the additional claims and any new points that were set forth in the Applicants' reply brief, if any. In other words, it was not necessary for the Applicants to respond at this time to any new arguments or new issues raised in the supplemental paper until the reply brief.

Date of Deposit: December 30, 2003
